Following God's Plan

Joshua 6

"March around the city," God told Joshua.

When the people of Israel finally arrived in the Promised Land, Jericho was the first city they came to. It was an important city with big, strong walls. They needed to conquer Jericho, but how would they get through those big walls?

Joshua talked with God and He gave Joshua a plan: The soldiers were to march silently around the walls of the city for six days. Only the sound of their feet and the trumpets of the priests were to be heard until Joshua gave the command.

On the seventh day, they marched not one time, but seven times around the city. The last time around, Joshua cried out. "God has given us the city! Now shout!"

They shouted as loud as they could and the walls of the city fell down! God showed His power with a miracle and gave them the city.
