Changes for Zacchaeus

Luke 19:1-10

"I came to find and save those who are lost," said Jesus.

One day, Jesus was passing through the city of Jericho where a man named Zacchaeus lived. Zacchaeus was the chief of a group of tax collectors working for the Roman government. He was very rich, but not very tall.

Zacchaeus had heard about Jesus and he wanted to see who this man was. Since he was so short, he couldn't see over the crowd of people surrounding Jesus. So, Zacchaeus ran ahead and climbed a tree where he could watch as Jesus walked by on the road.

When Jesus got close, he looked up and called, "Zacchaeus! Come down here quickly. I need to stay at your house today!"

Zacchaeus must have been surprised and happy. He got right down and opened his house for Jesus. As they talked together, Zacchaeus' heart changed.

"Lord," Zacchaeus told Jesus. "I give half of all that I have to the poor and for anyone I've robbed, I'll give them four times what I took."

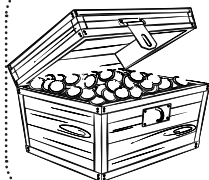

Jesus saw how Zacchaeus had changed and said, "Today salvation has come to this house!"
